The first of these is the fact that the number of cases of the disease has increased in the last few years. This is due to the fact that the disease is more common in the tropics than in the temperate zone. The second fact is that the disease is more common in the lower classes of society than in the upper classes.
 This is due to the fact that the lower classes are more exposed to the disease than the upper classes.
 The third fact is that the disease is more common in the summer months than in the winter months.
 This is due to the fact that the disease is more common in the warm months than in the cold months. The fourth fact is that the disease is more common in the rural population than in the urban population. This is due to the fact that the rural population is more exposed to the disease than the urban population. The fifth fact is that the disease is more common in the male population than in the female population. This is due to the fact that the male population is more exposed to the disease than the female population.

The sixth fact is that the disease is more common in the young population than in the old
 that the young population is more
 old population. The seventh fact
 in the population of the tropics than in the population of the temperate zone. This is due to the fact that the population of the tropics is more exposed to the disease than the population of the temperate zone. The eighth fact
 in the population of the lower classes than in the population of the upper classes. This is due to the fact that the population of the lower classes is more exposed to the disease than the population of the upper classes. The ninth fact
 in the population of the summer months than in the population of the winter months. This is due to
 summer months is more exposed to
 the winter months. The tenth fact
 in the population of the rural area than in the population of the urban area. This is due to the fact that the population of the rural area is
